THREE SANKOFA PILOTS OPERATIONAL IN TANZANIA

Sankofa Honda came into existence through a serendipitous meeting with Erika Bonifasi in early October 2025. A few weeks later, 95 children regularly attended classes in this underserved, rural community 80 km south of Dar Es Salaam.

Through the leadership of Fidelis Filipatali, Project Coordinator for the Rural Development Organization (RDO), this was quickly followed by Sankofa Udilo Mufindi with Isaya Kalinga on November 25, and, more recently, Sankofa Mdabulo RDO with Fredi Lutego in February 26.

Rahabu Filipatali, wife of Fidelis and a teacher in the Montessori school system, played a key role in developing these initiatives, which today engage 185 pupils using only the resources at hand, supplemented by a few passive educational tools purchased with sales of honey from RDO.

Thirty pupils from Honda have now graduated into the country's primary school system, replaced by another 27 students, dropping the overall enrollment by 3 to 92 after 10 months. These initiatives continue to attract significant interest from local and federal branches of the Tanzanian government.

Further pilot projects are planned as Sankofa continues its outreach to underserved rural communities across Tanzania.
